

This Conversion was Just for Practice

by David Aungier

Interior: center hallway, twin beds in the rear.

How one gets into a bus conversion is a frequent question. There are, it seems, as many answers as there are bus conversions. For me, my first bus conversion came during a camping evolution.

As a family, we had camped first in a tent then moved up to a travel trailer and eventually to a fifth wheel. I liked the concept of a tow vehicle being used as a passenger vehicle when one arrived at the camping destination. I was happy with this arrangement and concentrated on the minor modifications to both campers and tow vehicles to improve the camping experience. I don't recall the exact impetus
