

From Barracks Life to RV Life

By Joe and Apple Campbell

Just recently my wife and I had the pleasure in crossing paths with Phil and Ginni Lyons at a local RV park just north of Phoenix, AZ. After learning they too had a conversion, I was invited to submit my story to Bus Conversion Magazine. I must admit I never would have thought of writing this article had it not been for them.

They inspired us to tell our story and submit it to BCM. While a little unorthodox from most conversions, I can only hope that our story might inspire others with similar interests or perhaps just provide an interesting read for fellow RVer's and enthusiasts to enjoy.

As a youngster growing up in Massachusetts in the mid 1980's I always admired the big rigs and busses rolling up and down route 3A coming and going from Cape Cod and Boston. Especially the privately owned ones. Most of them were well polished customized powerhouses that seemed unstoppable as they cruised by complete with more marker lights than an annual Christmas show! These behemoths demanded respect and attention and that's exactly what they got from me.

As they passed our family car, I'd sometimes get lucky with a blow of the horn as I signaled them with the

SULASTIC® RUBBER SPRINGS

Square Tosilastic Replacement 	Square Tosilastic Tag Axle
Round Tosilastic Replacement
Torsilastic Shackles Round and Square
	Available for:
(210) 492-4469 www.sulastic.com

