

We Live on a Bus A 2005 International FE300

By Tina Wann

I was on Pinterest looking at vintage trailers, that is where I saw a Skoolie for the first time. Once the idea was in my head, I knew the nomadic lifestyle was for me and I hoped that my home on wheels would be a school bus. Although, it seemed unlikely that my husband would agree.

He was ten years into a career he enjoyed and had never expressed any desire to leave or travel full-time. When I finally worked up the nerve to tell him what I wanted to do, he said, "Yes, but I'm not living in a school bus."

I let the idea go and began hunting down the perfect RV to carry our family toward our dreams of seeing every inch of America. Little did I know, he was searching Skoolies and getting his first taste of the online world of bus conversions. It only took a couple of weeks for him to come back and tell me that he thought a school bus was our best option. Safety was the winning factor that
